

Please don't permit cell phone use on airplanes. I take public transit in San Francisco all the time, and when passengers use a cell phone, then tend not to hear what the conductor says and ignore the sensibilities of others. Phone users irritate and anger fellow passengers--and I've seen that anger escalate to shoving matches. As a safety issue, airline personnel shouldn't have to deal with the behavior of angry passengers.